Nacional enlightenment and education on the liberated territory in Serbia during the National Liberation Struggle

There are two aspects of realization of the educational activities during the war and the revolution – national education and education through schools. Bearers of the educational and cultural activities were military-political organs. Educational and cultural work was carried out in units and detachments through cultural-advertising committees. Strict subordinating of the education and culture to the basic political objectives of the revolution had an essential influence on the impoverishment of the contents which dominated the cultural work and educational activities.
